   The Office serves as the leading champion for comprehensive issues of access and inclusion for staff, customers, and the professions represented in the Department’s work and constituencies. It provides oversight of the Department’s compliance with the Americans with Disabilities Act and New York State’s Human Rights Laws to ensure that individuals with disabilities have the opportunity to secure reasonable accommodations to perform their assigned duties. Its Director serves as the Department liaison to the New York State Commission on Public Integrity, and advises employees on regulations and issues germane to their role as public servants pursuant to the Public Officers Law to avoid violations and breaches of the public trust.

   The Director further serves on SED’s Committees on the Professions, which conduct hearings on professional license restorations, moral character issues, and consent decrees for individuals who are, or have been, practitioners in 48 licensed professions. Most recently, the Office has become involved in several of the Department’s newly-established committees to oversee the distribution, utilization, and risk management of federal stimulus funds for education in New York State.

   The intern will work closely with management and staff in the Office of Diversity, Ethics, and Access and participate in a wide range of activities for which the Office has responsibility. He/she will receive ongoing supervisory input from both the Director of ODEA and the Director of the Labor Relations Bureau, have exposure to other offices within Human Resources Management and elsewhere within the Department, and have the opportunity to develop and share ideas and strategies for the continued success of the Department’s diversity planning and management program.
