

International Law Concentration

Requirements

15 credits from the following course and additional experiential credits:

- Cyberwar, Intelligence and National Security (3 credits)
- Federal Indian Law (3 credits)
- Global Privacy Law (3 credits)
- Immigration Law and Policy (3 credits)
- International Business Transactions (3 credits)
- International Child Rights (3 credits)
- International Human Rights Law (2 credits)
- International Labor Law (2 credits)
- International Law of War and Crime (3 credits)
- International Organizations (3 credits)
- International Trade and Commercial Law (3 credits)
- International and Comparative Intellectual Property
- Law of Climate Change (3 credits)
- Public International Law (3 credits)

Experiential Requirement:

Participation in at least one of the following experiential programs:

- Immigration Law Clinic (5 credits)
- Entrepreneurship Law in Emerging Global Technologies (2 credits) (if approved)
- Related Field Placement or Semester/Summer in Practice (approval by faculty advisor)

Writing Requirement:

Students are required to complete one significant piece of writing in the concentration area. The writing requirement does not require that students earn any credits beyond the required and credits described above. The topic and the arrangement for fulfilling the writing requirement, however, must be approved in advance by the Concentration Advisor. The paper could be written to fulfill the requirements of a course, an independent study, or a law journal note and comment. It may also be possible to fulfill this requirement by completing a substantial piece of writing in conjunction with an experiential course, clinic, or Field Placement, such as a brief, a series of Motions, or a significant legal memorandum. It could also be fulfilled by writing a paper independently, such as a submission to a writing competition or an article for publication. In all of these arrangements, the prior approval of the Concentration Advisor is required.

(Effective December 18, 2018)